MARKET REPORT

November 6th, 2026

Asparagus, carrots, snow peas, sugar snaps, tomatoes, and select beans remain tight, while holiday demand is adding additional pressure to some markets.

ASPARAGUS

Volume remains at 50 to 55% of normal at best, markets are extremely active, prices continue to trend up, and heavy prorates are expected.

TOMATOES

Supply of grape tomatoes, baby medley tomatoes, and mixed heirloom tomatoes is down, with pricing trending up.

BLUEBERRIES

Argentinean production is lower due to logistical issues, while Mexican production continues.

Snow Peas

Supply of Guatemalan snow peas and sugar snaps remains extremely limited. Improvement is expected in mid to late November.

GREEN BEANS

The bushel market remains high as the transition south continues and holiday demand picks up.

CARROTS

Production of Guatemalan baby orange, baby rainbow, and baby bi-color carrots continues to decrease and remains below 60% of normal due to reduced plantings.
